(International News Service)
ROME, Dec. 27.—The diplomatic impasse between Rome and Paris reached new depths today after French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet delivered a note to Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano taking issue with Italy's claim that the Rome-Paris agreement of 1935 is no longer valid.

It was understood the note contended that conditions in the Mediterranean have not changed sufficiently to alter or wipe out the pact concluded three years ago.

No Outside Interference France is willing to enter into further discussion regarding Mediterranean problems, the note indicated, but made it clear that such negotiations should take place between Rome and Paris alone, without any interference or mediation by Germany or any other nation.

In addition, the French government sought diplomatically to close the door to any new concessions to Italy regarding French colonial territory. This aspect of the Paris-Rome controversy is regarded as especially important in view of the recent informal French demands for annexa-

Will Rush Deficiency
Appropriation For W. P. A.By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Declaring that states and cities will not take the relief problem off Uncle Sam's hands, veteran chairman Edward Taylor of the House Appropriations committee, announced today that a deficiency appropriation for WPA will be rushed.

With WPA funds nearing exhaustion, Taylor plans to convene a deficiency subcommittee soon after congress opens to consider an appeal for more money.

Estimate Cost
Estimates of amounts needed to operate the WPA until the end of the fiscal year, June 30, range from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

"I plan to call my deficiency committee together as soon as the House is organized," said Taylor. "There is no doubt but that congress will provide funds to carry on WPA the rest of the fiscal year."

"The states don't want to take over the relief load—in fact, they won't take it over. Neither will cities and other subdivisions."
"For 100 years states, cities and counties were proud to take care of their own problems. It was a noble, inspiring idea but it is gone today."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, who succeeded Roosevelt has definitely assured friends on Capitol Hill that Senator James P. Pope (D) of Idaho, defeated for renomination, will be appointed chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, it was learned today.

A staunch New Dealer, Pope was succeeded by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, who the president discharged early in the year for "contumacy." Dr.
Morgan created the controversy within TVA which led to the present congressional investigation. He charged his co-directors, David Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, with waste and misdirection, and split with them over the extension of public power projects.

Pope, who believes in increasing TVA's public power sales, was defeated for renomination by D.
Worth Clark, who styles himself an Independent Democrat.

Parole System Changes
Recommended In State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Drastic changes in Pennsylvania's recently-criticized parole system, including the creation of a full-time salaried parole board, were before Gov.
George H. Earle today in the form of recommendations from his probation and parole commission.

The commission's report urged continuation of the parole power as a "weapon for the combat of crime
...therapeutic in nature," but added
these suggested revisions:

"1—Creation of a competent, impartial and continuing board or body vested with the power of parole in all criminal cases which shall devote its entire time the work of parole.

"2—Furnishing to this body sufficient funds, personnel and organization for the adequate and efficient performance of its duties.

"3—The enactment of a sentencing law which permits the board to release the prisoner at a time when he is most likely to be able to adjust himself to society.

Siege Of Wintery Weather
This Week

(International News Service)
A gigantic cold wave gripping the Great Plains with paralyzing force reached out for the eastern seaboard today.

The icy blasts from the Arctic northwest blustered
across Montana, Wyoming, the Dakotas and into the Great Lakes region late last night with the first real fury of the winter.

Crippling all forms of transportation with heavy winds that halted air travel and drifted snow along the highways and railroad tracks, the storm pushed on to Ohio and Pennsylvania, preceded by a chilling rain.

The temperature plunged precipitously as the sudden wave of cold struck each new section and by tonight it was predicted that the entire northern half of the country would be chilled by temperatures ranging from near zero to 20 and 30 below.

Treacherous Condition
Following rain or melting weather, the frigid wave left roads in perilous condition with a film of ice. In many states in the midwest the snow was so heavy that travel except along the main highways was virtually at a standstill.

Montana, Wyoming, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas were hardest hit by the frigid blasts. At

Zero Tonight

(International News Service)

Sweeping in on the heels of a blizzard that struck western Pennsylvania and caused considerable damage, the frigid blasts of winter advanced from the mid-west on Pennsylvania today, plummeting temperatures and causing suffering in many areas.

Weather forecasters in Pittsburgh predicted the mercury would drop down to 10 or 15 degrees above by nightfall in that district. Central Pennsylvania and eastern Pennsylvania also expected lower readings on the thermometer before the day is out.

A 30-mile an hour wind piled huge drifts in Somerset county and snow falls, ranging in depth from one to ten inches were reported in Greene and Washington counties.

Airlines cancelled scheduled flights last night but resumed today with reports that the weather would be fairly clear but cold. Bus service was delayed and stopped last night in western Pennsylvania as the blizzard roared eastward. The railroads, carrying a heavy volume of holiday traffic, moved through on schedule.

Admits Slaying

Confesses Firing Fatal
Shot, Police Say

(International News Service)
SHENANDOAH, Pa., Dec. 27.—William Mastitis, 35 year old Shenandoah insurance man, admitted to police today that he fired the shots that claimed the life of a fellow agent in a swift downtown street slaying this morning.

The victim, Roy Jones, 35, also of Shenandoah, was shot as he stepped into his automobile for a traffic light. Authorities said Mastitis claimed Jones "paid too much attention" to the former's wife.

Mastitis' car, they said, drew alongside the Jones' machine as it stopped at a street intersection. The bullets from a rifle in the Mastitis car pierced the head of the unsuspecting driver.

The police account of the slaying held that Mastitis left the scene of the slaying to call a policeman, then upon returning and finding Jones still breathing, he reloaded his rifle and fired another shot into the dying man. Jones has one child, Mas-

Christmas Is

Churches—Musical Pro-

That same spirit of good will, of devotion and of love shown on the first Christmas day more than nineteen centuries ago, was manifest Sunday in joyful and triumphant church programs. In sermon and song, was given the story of the birth of Jesus the Christ, which is to Christians the sweetest story ever told.

New Castle churches attracted the largest crowds of the year. With Christmas falling on Sunday, the day was observed with even greater reverence than usual. It was more than a date and a day, more than a tree and some gifts. It was a time for worship and thankfulness, and the churches were well filled.

Organ and choral music featured the Christmas programs. Selections from the great masters, Handel, Bach and score of other names equally beloved, were presented by the city's very best musicians and singers. Cantatas, plays and pageants were offered in some of the churches. Everywhere, the happy spirit of Christmas was present.

Mystery Death Of Colorado Woman
Being Investigated

CANON CITY, Colo., Dec. 27.—
Authorities investigating the mysterious death of Mrs. Nona Atterbury, 31-year-old Canon City, Colo., club and church leader, today weakened the theory that she may have been slain by a "Peeping Tom."

District Attorney E. M. Engleton said that a medical examination of the woman's body disclosed she had not been the victim of an attack
before she was strangled to death
Wednesday night.

Several women living in the neighborhood reported having been terrorized by a prowler in recent weeks.

"It is possible, however, that an attacker might have strangled Mrs.
Atterbury and then been frightened, hurting her body down the stairs
before he fled," Engleton said.

Dr. R. L. Atterbury, 40-year-old osteopath husband of the victim, told authorities he found his wife's body at the foot of the basement steps when he returned from a call.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Well, it's all over. Christmas has come and gone, and here we are taking inventory. Papa is trying on his new necktie; Mama is getting the feel of her bed-room slippers; Sister is experimenting with her manicure set, and Brother is making a brave effort to smoke his Christmas cigars. That's the advantage of "useful" presents. When you get a box of candy you eat it up and then you haven't anything.

This is a busy day for clerks in the various stores. During the buying season many presents were bought with the understanding that they could be exchanged after Christmas if the size was not right, or the color did not suit. Many changes are consequently necessary and the clerks are doing their best to accommodate their customers.

In a few more days we'll be writing 1939. The dying year is on its last legs and every hour will be getting more wobbly. The year has been marked by the depths of a depression, but fortunately there are signs that the new year may be more prosperous. In making your New Year resolutions, do not forget to include one that you will do your part in helping along better times.

Resume Probe Of Coster's Affairs

Many Witnesses To Be Examined

New President Of McKesson Firm To Be Among First Interrogated

TEN DIRECTORS ALSO SUMMONED

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—More than a dozen witnesses, ten of them directors of the McKesson & Robbins Drug Corporation, become key figures today in the resumption of investigations into that concern's tangled financial affairs.
One of the first witnesses slated to appear before a federal grand jury is Charles F. Michaels, newly elected president of the drug firm. Michaels, successor to "F. Donald Coster" who committed suicide shortly after he was unmasked as swindler Philip Musica, sold 15,000 shares of common stock and a private inquiry was begun into operation of the firm's crude drug department where $18,000,000 in fictitious assets were discovered.
Another person expected to appear was Catharine Sikora, of Bridgeport, who was secretary to one of Philip's three brothers held here on federal charges. The brothers were associated with McKesson & Robbins or fictitious affiliated concerns under assumed names.
Despite their apparent inactivity during the holidays, federal investigators have been studying closely the blackmail firm of the "Coster" case. Acting U. S. Attorney Gregory Noonan claims he knows eight persons, two of them racketeers, to whom "Coster" paid untold thousands of dollars in order that he would not be unveiled as a convicted swindler of 25 years ago.
The state attorney general's office also swings back into action today, interrogating several persons who should have known something about McKesson & Robbins' financial setup. Among those scheduled to appear before this inquiry was John H. McGloin, comptroller for the drug firm. He and others probably will be asked to explain why no adequate investigation of "Coster's" manipulation of the firm's business and financial affairs was made before it became necessary to launch reorganization proceedings.

FRANCE REFUSES TO ACCEPT ITALY'S STAND ON PACT

ian newspaper charges that Premier Laval's policy is nothing more than a "provocation."
Will Cede No Territory
Beyond seeking to refute Clano's arguments in support of Italy's denunciation of the pact, France served warning that she will refuse to cede any territory to Italy.
According to belief in diplomatic quarters in Rome, the French premier's proposed trip to Corsica and Tunisia will be staged in an effort to offset the forthcoming visit of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to Italy for conversations with Premier Mussolini.
The fact that Laval plans to make his official trip abroad a French warship and to review military parades in Corsica and Tunisia has drawn the fire of the Fascist press, which sees Laval's journey as an attempt to torpedo any further "appeasement" resulting from the Mussolini-Chamberlain talks.
The English had reason to drop the "L" using "an" before, so they changed it to "an orse."
Correct this sentence: "I wish to sacrifice myself and serve the world," said the young idealist, "so I'll begin with my own family."

WILL RUSH W. P. A. DEFICIENCY FUNDS

Now they sit down pulchritudinally and wait for Uncle Sam to come and save them.
"They put congressmen 'on the spot'." When people back home put pressure on congressmen you can't blame them if they vote appropriations. If they want to stay in office they have to represent the people."

Sees Natural Change

Taylor, however, looking back over 50 years in public office, says that the change to greater dependence of the federal government is natural and evolutionary.
"We cannot maintain our power and prestige before the world as a confederation of states—we've got to maintain it as a nation," he said. "There has to be a head to the nation. Call it centralization if you will but it is necessary. You can't blame the New Deal for it."

In considering an emergency appropriation to carry WPA through the winter, Taylor plans to call WPA heads, representatives of large cities and others.
"They will have to make a showing," he said. "We will call on mayors of big cities, on mayor La Guardia of New York, head of the mayors' organization, and others. Some of the cities are in bad financial shape and can't carry the relief load."
While President Roosevelt finally will determine the amount to be sought to carry on WPA, New Deal officials say that the WPA must continue to carry 3,000,000 persons during the winter months.
With improving business, relief officials hope for a reduction in relief expenditures in the spring. Backers of government spending, however, will seek an appropriation of at least $1,000,000,000 so that WPA will continue at its present rate the year round.

TYDINGS BELIEVES CONGRESS WILL BE MORE INDEPENDENT

congress. I am glad to have his views, but they are not final or decisive.
Senator Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, a critic of federal spend-and-learn programs, dismissed Eccles' Christmas day verbal broadside against Senator Byrd (D) of Virginia, with:
"Everybody knows where I stand on this federal spending. Eccles hasn't changed my views."
"The leading problems before congress as I see them," Tydings said, are reasonable national defense, agriculture, relief for the needy, government finances and international relations.
"The agriculture policy now in vogue, while serving a temporary need must have violent rearrangement. As it is now conceived it is more of a salve than a cure."
Need Permanent Policy
"For a number of years relief for the unemployed has been handled on a year to year basis and largely by the national government alone. The time has come for a more permanent, long-range policy on relief, with a larger measure of local responsibility."
"Then, too, relief in the future, and in fact all governmental appropriations, must be formulated more on a pay-as-you-go policy."
"As to national defense our existing establishment should be closely scrutinized, particularly the navy and its auxiliaries. Without running wild on defense expenditures we should round out our program so as to give our nation security."

Just returned from several weeks of vacationing in Europe, Tydings said he found the world "indulging in a deluge of hate, intolerance and misunderstanding."
"Every effort," he said, "should be made to revive a policy of live and let live. Not only in humane relationships of one nation with another, but in economic relationships as well, is there a great need for effort and progress."

FRIGID WAVE IN MIDWEST; IS SWEEPING EAST

Helena, Mont., the mercury dropped to 6 below zero, and readings well below the zero mark were predicted today for Nebraska.

It was six below at Devil's Lake, N. D., five below at Fort Collins, Colo., and four below in Moorhead, Minn. Temperatures ranging from slightly below zero to a few degrees above were general in Iowa.

Fore-runner in Pennsylvania

Fore-runner of what was predicted as Pennsylvania's worst storm of the season, a snowstorm propelled by high winds struck the western portion of the state with crippling effect. Air lines cancelled their regular flights and buses and automobiles were halted or badly delayed by ice-coated or snow-choked highways. A 20-mile-an-hour wind tore from its moorings a roof on a wing of the Latrobe, Pa., hospital and broke the power lines feeding the institution. The wind severed power lines in the southwest section of Pennsylvania and uprooted trees.

Predict 15 Above

Temperatures of 15 above zero were predicted for the eastern seaboard, where the mercury was expected to drop steadily throughout the day. Rain was expected to turn to snow as the temperature lowered with the approach of the cold wave.

Continued rain and moderate temperatures kept Washington, D. C., damp but relatively comfortable. The mercury was expected to drop, however, in the mountainous section of western Maryland, which was under a snow blanket as deep as 2½ inches in some places.

With two storms converging on the state, the mercury was due to fall to 10 or 15 degrees above later today.

Ohio too felt the force of the storm, with high winds preceding rapidly falling temperatures and covering parts of the state with snow. The mercury was scheduled to fall to 15 degrees above in Ohio by afternoon.

Mercury Drops

The mercury fell to 13 above in Indianapolis, with colder predicted as the storm settled on the state. Snow and ice-covered highways and poor visibility in the north sector of Indiana caused five traffic fatalities.

St. Louis shivered with the mercury at 14 above. Snow, driven by a 31-mile-an-hour wind, fell in the St. Louis area.

After a snowstorm, borne by a shrieking west wind, that piled hazardous drifts on highways in upper Illinois the mercury fell steadily early today to five above zero. Ice-coated highways stalled or slowed automobile and bus traffic. Airplane service out of Chicago was crippled overnight. West bound planes were operating from Kansas City and St. Louis.

To Hang On

While rising temperatures were predicted in the Rocky mountain region, the cold wave was scheduled to hang on unbroken throughout the week in the upper central states.

Low temperatures were scheduled to spread into the deep south tonight and tomorrow.

Dallas shivered in a 22 above temperature this morning, the coldest of the season. It was 11 above at Amarillo, Tex., and the mercury was expected to go lower. Freezing temperatures prevailed over a wide portion of Texas. Dust storms roared in west Texas.

Dust storms yesterday plagued the dust bowl area of Kansas, but the dark clouds that marked the "dust-bowl" cleared as the temperature fell to near zero. In the Kansas City area the mercury varied from zero to five above readings.

Fair and mild weather prevailed along the Pacific coast.

Democrats May Oppose Seating Of Dr. Tenerowicz

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Democratic members of congress were called on today to change the right of Dr. Rudolph F. Tenerowicz, Michigan Democrat, to the seat in the house to which he was elected in November.

The house members received a letter bearing the signature of A. J. Rathnaw, treasurer of the Wayne county (Detroit) Democratic committee urging that the Democrats themselves act to prevent the seating of Tenerowicz.

At the same time, it was indicated that Republicans will make no move though a proposal to make a fight on the new congressman is expected to be made in the Republican conference just before congress convenes.

"It is up to the Democrats—it constitutes their problem," said Rep. Woodruff of Michigan, chairman of the Republican conference. He added that this is his personal view.

Rathnaw, who also is a member of the Detroit Civil Service Commission, said that Tenerowicz should not be seated because he was convicted of conspiracy in aiding, encouraging and receiving money from the underworld for protection.

Deaths of the Day

Rev. William H. Nerry, a well known former resident of the West side, passed away in California, on Christmas morning after an illness of some time, according to word received from Pasadena by his sister, Mrs. Emily B. Botham, of 445 East Washington street.

Rev. Nerry at one time resided on Smithfield street in this city, and worked in the Shenango tin mill. He married a New Castle girl, Miss Lillie B. Roberts, and together they entered college in Wilmore, Ky., to study for the ministry. Upon completion of their studies, both were ordained, and side by side for 25 years they worked in spreading the gospel. ## The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

JEALOUSY KINDEL'S OFFENSIVE MANNER

"DEAR DR. MYERS: For some years I have read with interest your articles on children and have also heard you speak when you were in our city. I have wanted to talk with you about my son, the second of three children.

"The boy is 14 and has recently acquired the habit of saying unkind things about people. He does not swear, but has a number of unpleasant words with which he describes people. The other day... he offended a friend who was keeping house for me while I was away by saying that everything she cooked was 'lousy'. Recently when we were on an automobile trip, he entered into a long flow of words, speaking adversely of friend after friend. I could not make him stop until finally I became very angry with him. That silenced him a while... until nightfall when we were all tired and hunted in vain for a place to stay for the night. Then he started again... When I objected, he got out of the car, saying he would walk home, a distance of over 200 miles. We waited until he returned to the car. Then he seemed surprised when I went into tears and said I would not take things so seriously.

Very Critical, Harsh
"He is very critical and harsh with his sister, nine years old."

Many of the readers who have followed my column must have guessed the source of trouble with this boy before you had read far. The last sentence made you sure of your diagnosis — jealousy of the sister.

We naturally feel a deep sympathy with this mother and, in her place, might have lost our self-control just as she did. But, as I wrote her, the lad won attention through this victory over her which he may have won in no other way. And to have so stirred his mother in the presence of the sister made his victory all the greater. As he said ugly things about other persons he merely substituted these other persons for his sister, about whom he felt most eager to speak unkindly.

This boy will gradually get relief from jealousy as he comes to feel more worthy in the family circle, and emotionally more secure. I urged the mother to try to restrain herself when he becomes abusive of others, waiting till a calm moment to speak quietly to him about it; to find ways of making him feel more worthwhile and helping him gain satisfactions from worthy successes; to be very careful, moreover, never to compare him unfavorably with his sister or anyone else. I suggested, furthermore, that she see to it that the sister shall not impose on him or interfere in any way with his rights or possessions. Of course, his father could do much for this boy by going places with him alone, and being a good comrade to him.

DAY AFTER

Edgar A. Guest

'Twas the day after Christmas and all through the place were paper and ribbon and tinsel and lace.

The presents for mother were stacked on a chair
While mine were kept hid at the foot of the stair.
But those sent to Janet I'll swear, covered all
The length of the table which stands in the hall.

There were pretties of orchid and yellow and blue
Which only at Christmas time visitors
view;
There were kerchiefs and stockings
and jewels and furs, Gloves, garters, galoshes—and all of them hers!
With perfume and powders—and lipin at your call.
Miss Janet exultantly showing them all.

By day and by night came the friends to behold
The plunder of Christmas, its silver and gold;
Its silk and its satin, its boxes of hose,
And all the long while rang their

Some socks, wool and lisle, and a mother said then,

"My darling, your father's gone crazy again!"

The first kid light the Hints and Dints man had, they had to take ten stitches in his opponent. And when the doctor reached us he had to borrow a sewing machine.

CLIMBING

Heaven is not reached in a single bound
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies
And we mount to its summit, round by round.

Our idea of wasting money is writing to Santa Claus. It only makes more work for the over-worked mail carriers.

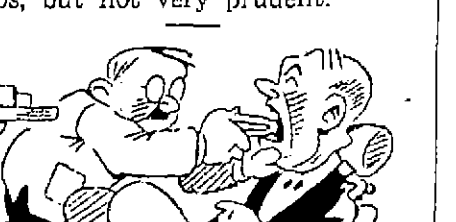

Beauty experts say women lose their figures only because they are lazy. Try telling that to a plump grandmother who raised eight children.

Mrs. Chubb—John, dear, do you really believe there is such a thing as beginner's luck?
John—Oh, sure. We were happy the first week of our married life, weren't we.

Desire to change the old rules doesn't prove you a Liberal. It proves only that you aren't winning and have nothing to lose by a change.

Bunchuck (at depot)—Say, look at all those men over there in a circle with their heads together. Must be a football team going somewhere to play a post-season game.
Daudi—Why, man that's no football team. That's just a bunch of Scotchmen lighting their cigars.

Harold—Nowadays many couples are omitting the word "obey" from the marriage ceremony. Do you think that right?

The knowledge of how to be popular is a God-given gift bestowed upon some girls. But of the majority it is self-acquired. Here are a few rules to be followed to attain this all-important asset. Make yourself as pretty and attractive as possible. Be agreeable, with always a ready smile instead of a frown. Hide ill-temper. Show an interest in a man whose invitations you accept. But don't let him think you would be lost without his attentions. When with him be neither aloof nor too demonstrative. Go easy on the telephone. Men do not like girls who call them up. Let them seek you. Be "in the know" on what's going on in the world. Read the newspapers and best sellers. See the latest pictures and plays, that you may never be a dead weight conversationally. Keep the social ball rolling by giving an occasional party in your own home.

Reader's Question Answered
Dear Miss Markel—How should I write my name on the back of an envelope to indicate the return address: "Mrs. Robert Jones" or "Mary Jones?"

Answer—Mrs. Robert Jones. This is not a signature but a label.

NOT THE RIGHT COLOR

Jake recently had a particular customer—a woman who went away in a huff.

"What was the matter with the woman?" asked another customer waiting his turn.

"She found fault with the potatoes," said Jake.

"What fault did she find?"
"She said she didn't like the color of their eyes."

The funniest things we have read in recent years are lists of names. Very often one cannot pronounce a single name in a list.

Honest mistakes only rip the seams, but treacherous ones cause a bad tear.
Boogy—Isn't it strange! My best ideas come to me while I am washing my hands.
Woogy—Say, old man, why don't you take a bath?

Announcing to his slightly startled congregation that he played bridge, Dr. John W. Rustin, pastor of Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Washington, also said: "There is no harm in playing bridge. The moral issue comes when a woman spends all afternoon playing bridge and then rushes home and feeds her husband on canned soup."

Whatever his class may be, he is a success if his idea of saving the country is to ruin the part he doesn't like.

Mrs. Meeker—John I'm afraid you went to sleep during the sermon this morning. I was ashamed of you.
Meeker—Yes, I'm sorry, but when it started I was afraid it wouldn't.

It isn't true that people are nice to us when we're in trouble. If they were, they'd be nice all the time.

A lot of people who have been paying their taxes right along every year do not like the way delinquent tax payers are benefitting by not having paid their taxes for several years past. It don't look like a square deal especially in the cases where the taxpayer could have paid what he owes.

Harefoot—No, she takes all of it.

WPA Decision Faces Congress
Will Be Biggest Problem To Solve
Congressmen Afraid Of Electorate

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 27.—

One of the big problems congress will have to tackle at its coming session is the matter of the Works Progress Administration's cost. Times being somewhat better than they were, there already are signs of a strong demand for a cut in the WPA's appropriation. Administration Harry L. Hopkins hasn't said anything to indicate that he intends it, but he has said that he favors any reasonable investigation calculated to keep politics out of it. And some few New Dealers themselves have expressed sympathy with the proposed economy program—if possible; they're not so sure that it is possible yet.

If congress were left to do its own deciding, I surmise that a bit of retrenchment might be expected. From talks I've had with legislators now here, in advance of the 1939 session's opening, I gather that most of them think the public (outside the ranks of WPA workers) predominantly desires it. And congressmen usually act as public opinion appears to them to dictate. But Not Always.

They're terribly afraid of a large, solid group of electors. Miscellaneous public opinion may be somewhat more one way or the other, but that solid group is liable to constitute a balance of power.

Now, the WPA workers ARE such a group. They naturally don't want their financial allowance trimmed. And there are a lot of them. About 3,200,000 on the rolls. Not all of them are unionized as members of the Workers' Alliance of America. The Alliance is only about 400,000 strong. Nevertheless, they all will cast their ballots in support of the Alliance's policy—which is, not a smaller WPA appropriation, but a bigger one.

The average congressman is as afraid as death of antagonizing his share of 3,200,000 constituents. Maybe the WPA needs more money. Maybe it could get along on less. Maybe the present figure is about right.

I'm neutral, but I argue that the WPA workers are not the folk to settle the question of how they'd (Continued On Page Five)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE BOAR'S HEAD

The English ceremony of the Boar's head is one of the features of Christmas in England. Two outstanding such ceremonies are those observed by the Worshipful Company of Cutlers in London before Christmas and by the students of Queen's College, Oxford, on Christmas Day.

The Cutlers' banquet is marked by a procession whose entry is announced by a fanfare of trumpets and by a traditional carol sung by the choristers of Christ Church. The lemon that decorates the jaws of the boar's head is awarded to the chief singer, while the Master of the Cutlers' Company is presented with a pot of mustard.

At Oxford, the ceremony, which dates back to the 16th century, consists of carrying the boar's head (this time with an orange in its jaws) to the dining hall, amid much pomp and dignified revelry. An old carol beginning thus, is sung: The boar's head in hand bear I. Bedecked with bays and rosemary. And I pray you, masters, merry be. Qui estis in convivio. Caput apris deferere. Reddens laudes Domino.

How did this feast originate? That is impossible to determine exactly, but one entertaining legend is that it commemorates a contest between a Queen's scholar and a wild boar. Although unarmed, the quick-witted student scored a signal victory over the fierce beast by thrusting a copy of Aristotle down its throat, remarking as he did so "Graecum est."

Almost Incredible

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. IT IS pleasant to be in tune with the Christmas spirit, but if one is not wholly allergic to facts it is a little hard at the moment to dwell convincingly upon the general subject of peace and good will on earth. The truth is that in no peaceful period has there been more ill will in the world than exists today.

THE propaganda mills through which national hatreds are kindled are running full blast. Nations recall their Ambassadors and viciously spit at each other. One returning diplomat, casting discretion to the winds, says things are "terrible" and war bound to come soon. A Cabinet member unwisely and unprecedentedly uses abusive language concerning the conduct of a foreign country, and the country, when it demands an apology, is told that the comment of which it complains was justified and we have no regrets to offer—in brief, to go to hell. In neither hemisphere is there anything approaching real amity and understanding.

IN Europe, nations just able to keep their heads above water economically are feverishly spending to increase their armaments. And here in the United States with a debt higher than anyone ever dreamed of, with taxes steadily mounting and the Federal finances in confusion after nine years of increasing deficits, we are preparing to launch a great "national defense" program to expand military, naval and air forces far beyond existing strength. About this there are two schools of thought.

ONE holds that we are in a defenseless condition which invites attack; that there is danger of hostile powers gaining military bases in South America from which to threaten us; that it is vital, not only for our trade but our life, to arm. The other school, whose views were recently voiced by Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, regards the drive for a greater armament as whipped up hysteria, insists that if we mind our own business, we will be perfectly safe and that to spend huge sums upon increasing our military and naval strength in order to resist an entirely chimerical and utterly improbable attack, is sheer idiocy.

WHEN the situation as a whole is considered, not only in Europe but here, the conviction seems unavoidable that we are headed straight for another general conflict from the consequences of which no country can escape. However, there are at least two great, outstanding facts to weight against the wild accumulation of armaments and the great increase in national bellicosity. In the face of these facts, it is almost incredible that, bad as things look, the ultimate calamity will happen. Should it occur, certainly the belief that the human race is superior in intelligence to the beasts will no longer be tenable. It will be proof of the utter incapacity of mankind to sustain a civilized society; complete repudiation of the idea that the race has progressed.

THE first of these facts is that in no country do the people want to fight. In every country, among the people—and this, of course, includes Germany—there is an intense desire for permanent peace. No one disputes that. Whatever the kind of government under which they live, however truculent their leaders, whatever the character of their neighbors, the people want peace. They may not know how to preserve it, but they want it. Of that there is no room for doubt. The second fact is that, as every thoughtful man knows, another war means ruin for victor and vanquished alike. Neither the economic nor social structure of any great nation can sustain the strain of another world war. A general collapse would occur, a period of chaos ensue. There isn't any doubt about that either.

AS an example of the struggle to keep afloat, even now, the extraordinary rise in the cost of the social services, which includes the dole, pensions, etc., in England, is cited—a cost which in the form of taxes pervades the whole of British economic and industrial life. According to the London Times, in 1910 this cost was $3,000,000,000 pounds yearly; in 1936 it had risen to $33,000,000,000; the cost was $33,000,000,000 pounds, or over $2,000,000,000. These figures make one realize that at Munich Mr. Chamberlain was not only comparing his country's military strength with that of the threatened enemy, but looking at the balance sheet as well, with full appreciation that another general war means the end of the economic system of Europe. Win or lose, assuredly such a war means the end of the kind of England that exists now and has for many centuries.

WHAT is true of England is true of all the rest—true to some extent of us as well. That, in the light of these things, some way cannot be found to avoid a general conflagration that may burn us all up in a terrific indictment of man as a reasoning being. Those who are trying to find a way are certainly entitled to support, not criticism.

Ex-Mrs. Crater And New Husband Sail For Germany

Is Convinced That Judge
Joseph Crater Is "Dead",
Wants Will Probated

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Convinced that the missing Supreme Court Justice Joseph Crater is dead, his "widow" and the man she married several months ago today were headed for what they termed a honeymoon in Germany, the New York Journal and American stated in a copyright story.

The "widow" of the jurist who disappeared mysteriously on Aug. 6, 1930, attempted to sail in secrecy with her new husband, Carl Kunz, a civil engineer, aboard the liner Normandie but were discovered by a Journal and American reporter. In an interview Mrs. Kunz and her lawyer revealed that Justice Crater left a heretofore unmentioned paper before he vanished, according to the Journal and American which stated:

"That paper—apparently a note which may lead the way to new revelations—will be introduced in the new court action through which Mrs. Kunz hopes to win probating of the missing jurist's will.

"Both Mrs. Kunz and her husband preferred to describe their trip to Germany as a honeymoon. They insisted they would return in March, which is about the time the will case may be reached."

Neither would discuss details of the petition for probate which already is prepared, nor would they disclose contents of the mysterious "paper". It will be used in the proceedings designed to establish that Crater is dead and to clear the way toward collection of insurance policies totalling $1500, said the Journal and American. The former Mrs. Crater is the beneficiary.

The Journal and American quoted Mrs. Kunz as saying: "I know that he (Crater) is dead. I also know that all the misery and misfortune that I have suffered in connection with his disappearance also have come to an end. I am now very happily married."

like higher pay. I would if I were a WPA worker. But surely the taxpayers who foot the bill are entitled to a voice.

In effect, these WPA-ers are the country's employees. They're comparable, for the time being, to our civil service outfit.

Well, in Britain the lifetime civil service man or woman isn't entitled to vote. The theory is that he or she takes a job under the government, knows what he or she is contracting to work for, has a permanent position, with a pension at the end of it, is somewhat a privileged worker and ought not to be fixed to boss the society he or she is working for.

The rule doesn't apply to periodically elected or temporarily appointed officials—only to the career folk.

I lived in England for a term of years and I thought then that it was an undemocratic system. Today I'm not so sure of it. The rest of us vote the money. Why should they tell us how much to vote them?

Not Like Paupers
It isn't like telling a pauper that he can't vote, as is the law in one or two of our states.

A pauper is a pauper because he can't help himself—perhaps because he has suffered rank injustice. An English career civil servant trades his vote for obvious advantages.

Oh, yes, I know. Such remarks will enrage all our civil service workers, and all WPA-ers and Democrats generally. All the same, I don't like to see the WPA regulate our national expenditures in its own interest.

Chiang Kai-Shek Denies Rumors Of Any Move For Peace

(International News Service)

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 27.—Chinese generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek today personally denounced rumors that China is seeking to negotiate a truce to end the war with Japan.

At his provisional capital of Chungking, the Chinese leader confirmed reports that Wang Ching-Wei, vice president of the Chinese war council, is enroute to Hong Kong via French Indo-China, but declared Wang is making the trip purely for reason of health.

"Rumors that he will conduct peace negotiations are absolutely without foundation," said Chiang. It was recalled that Wang, in an interview last October, declared: "We are willing to make peace at any time, but only upon terms which will not menace our independence. We have never closed the door to mediation."

Italian-German Ties Are Strong

(International News Service)

ROME, Dec. 27.—Ties between Italy and Germany are so strong that American attacks on Germany amount also to attacks on Italy, Virginia Gayda, authoritative spokesman for the Italian government, asserted today in the Giornale d'Italia.

The criticism of Germany in the United States, Gayda declared, constitutes new evidence of America's uncalculated intervention in European affairs. Because of the complete solidarity of the Rome-Berlin axis, he maintained, Italy considers this criticism as much anti-Italian as anti-German.

Firemen Busy Over Christmas

Many Alarms Answered For Small Fires In Various Parts Of City

At 1:50 a. m. December 25, someone on Neshamock avenue saw the glow from a red lamp shade in the home of David Marshall, 130 Quest street, and thought the home was afire, summoning firemen to the scene.

At 6:03 p. m. December 25, firemen were called to the store of F. K. Anderson, 245 East Washington street, where someone had set fire to the awning with a cigaret. The loss was around $15.

Words of Wisdom

I will govern my life and my thoughts as if all the world were to see the one and to read the other; for what does it signify to make anything a secret to my neighbor, when to God all our privacies are open?—Seneca.

Musica Firm Had Exceedingly Large "Write-ups" In 1926

Accounting Department Head
Gives Testimony Before
Coster Probers

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The state's attorney general's probe into the past of the late Philipp Musica—alias "F. Donald Coster" of the McKesson-Robbins case—today developed testimony that as far back as 1926 there was an "exceedingly large" write-up in assets of a firm Musica was then guiding.

Musica killed himself recently following the unmasking of his identity and disclosure that $12,000,000 in listed assets of McKesson & Robbins was unlocatable.

John H. McGoon, vice president in charge of accounting for McKesson-Robbins, said that in September, 1926, he audited the books of Girard & Co., a Mt. Vernon, N. Y., "hair tonic company" run by Musica. This audit showed, he said, that between March and September of that year accounts receivable had risen from $210,000 to $440,500 and inventories from $153,000 to $294,111, a total of $734,611—although the total assets were only $1,097,302.

McGoon first said he "didn't see anything unusual about this," but then added most of the activity "was in the crude drug department." It was in the McKesson-Robbins drug department, controlled by Musica, that much of the listed assets was found missing.

The witness admitted the accounts receivable were "exceedingly large" but said he was satisfied that the inventories were correct and that he "took the word of Coster."

Conference At Lima, Peru, To Conclude Today

Eighth Pan-American Conference Will End With Signing Of Resolutions

(International News Service)
LIMA, Peru, Dec. 27.—The eighth Pan-American conference comes to an end today with the ceremony of signing the various resolutions agreed upon by the delegations of the 21 American republics and a final session for closing speeches and formal adjournment.

Chief among the documents to be signed by the 21 plenipotentiaries are the "declaration of Lima," proclaiming inter-American solidarity against threats from abroad, a declaration calling for consultation among American foreign ministers in certain circumstances and the "declaration of American principles," which embodies Secretary of State Cordell Hull's eight points for peace.

Later, the closing session will be held in Lima's legislative palace. Dr. Carlos Concha, Peruvian foreign minister and president of the conference, will address the delegates and Secretary Hull is scheduled to deliver a brief address.

Shortly before midnight President Oscar R. Benavides of Peru will act as host at a farewell ball in the government palace.

NEW ANGLE TO OLD JOKE

"Ever heard this one?" asked one of the group sitting around the camp fire.

"A dog was tied to a rope 14 feet long. Twenty feet away was a fat, juicy bone. How did the dog get to the bone?"

"Oh, that's old," answered another. "You want one of us to say, 'I give it up,' and then you'll say, 'That's what the dog did.'"

"No, you're wrong, for the dog got the bone."

"Well, how did he get it?"

"The other end of the rope wasn't tied."

Descriptions Of Two Prisoners Sent To Kingston

Find Lists Of Girl's Names On Prisoners Held In Philadelphia

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—Descriptions of two prisoners on whom police found lists of girls' names today were sent to Kingston police and state troopers investigating the kidnap murder of 19-year-old Margaret Martin.

Convicted on a charge of vagrancy, Richard Mitman, 21, was sentenced to a year in the house of correction after three women complained he promised to get them jobs as "photographers' models." Mitman, according to detectives, posed as a "photographer's scout" and attempted to lure women to non-existent jobs. The youth was arrested several days ago when he posed as a gun-running "contact man" for F. Donald Coster, alias Philip Musica, late drug king.

Jack D. Vickers, 51, was held in $2,500 bail on a charge of fleeing several lawyers through a story he found a pot of gold near Lakewood, N. J., and needed legal advice. The names of 25 girls were found on his person, police said.

Her father, Attorney William McElwee, Jr., is the county solicitor of Lawrence County and has been engaged in practice here for many years. Her mother also studied law but never was admitted to practice.

Recapture Four Escaped Convicts

(International News Service)
OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 27.—Less than 48 hours after they slipped two men and locked up a third while making a Christmas day escape from the Douglas county jail, four prisoners were rounded up today and put back in their cells.

Paul Romano and Phil Erwin were captured on a farm near Gretna, Neb., near where their two companions, Marion Brown and Fred J. Roberts were taken some hours earlier.

Brown and Erwin, both wanted in Missouri for escaping from the State penitentiary where the former was serving a life sentence for murder, were completing sentences for a holdup in Omaha.

Roberts was being held on a hold-up charge after recently completing a term in the Nebraska state penitentiary and Romano, held on a federal narcotics charge, is believed to be wanted in Texas in connection with a bank robbery.

BEAUTIFUL SETTINGS
ADD TO PROGRAM

Christmas service in First Presbyterian church has come to mean a service distinguished for a number of things: for the artists who are called in to assist in it, for the decorations, for the color and the reverence which surround it. This year's service held Sunday night December 25 was no different than those of previous years except that it was more striking, more brilliant.

The setting for this year's service was a thing of transcendent beauty. Centering the platform was a replica of a huge cathedral window, divided into five panels, with each panel divided into three parts. In size the window was about 20 feet high and about ten feet wide. In appearance one might have thought it had been taken from an old world cathedral and transplanted in First church for the occasion. Back of it were placed lights which brought out the figures and the detail of the window. It was a koinor set in a field of green.

Edging the window was rope laurel, while to the side and front were lighted pine trees. In front of the altar was another row of pines while on the altar was a huge rustic log and on it a "mystic" candle which burned all during the service and showed its green light through the walls of the candle. Around the balcony of the church was a group of wreaths and hanging from them, bronze bells. The entire setting was one of sheer beauty, one of inspiration, one that directed and held the attention of the hearer to the spirit of the day.

Noted Musicians Appear
Featuring the music of the evening was Robert Charles Topping, young tenor of New York who seems headed for the heights, musically. Mr. Topping handled the solo numbers in a musical program as long and imposing as an oratorio and at the end of it convinced his auditors that there was a young man who is just now knocking at the gates of the musical greats. He is a dramatic tenor, with a virile, vibrant voice, whose voice is both powerful and sympathetic, a voice that has the freshness of youth and the quality that comes of experience.

Back of Mr. Topping was a quartet, composed of Thomas Murdoch, Vincent Kroen, Cass Ward Whitney and Raymond Griffin. These gentlemen were here a year ago and their appearance this year was that of an old acquaintance renewing a most pleasant association. Their work was well done.

The program portrayed the life of Christ, back from the Old Testament prophecies to his resurrection. There was a dignity and subtle beauty about the entire evening that bespeaks creative genius and abiding reverence. Mrs. Louis B. Rooney was the chairman of the Committee on Arrangement and Decoration.

Business Trend Strongly Upward As 1939 Looms

By JULES KRAMER
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—American business experienced both depression and recovery in 1938, duplicating the performance of the year before.

There was, however, this great striking difference—that while business closed 1937 on a cheerless and depressed note after one of the most abrupt industrial declines in the nation's history, the end of 1938 saw a complete reversal and the trend strongly upward.

Another parallel to the 1937 situation was that the turn in the business tide came at approximately the same time in each year. The 1937 high of the Moody Business Index, the composite barometer of leading indices, was 111.8 established on July 17.

The nation, however, already suspected that a recession was coming, for the stock market had a severe break in the Spring. By December 4, 1937, the Moody Index had slumped to 79.2.

Low Reached In June
Business in 1938 experienced a drab spring, and production dragged along until June 4 when the year's low of 71.3 was established. However, the stock market at the end of June staged a spectacular boom, reviving hope of an early turn in trade, and the recovery became manifest at the end of the Summer.

Gaining momentum in the face of the German-Czech crisis abroad, which brought Europe nearer to war than at any time since 1914, business forged ahead steadily and set a high for the year of 97.2 on Dec. 3, or just a year from the date when the 1937 low occurred.

Statistics of individual industries reveal the ebb and flow of the business tide, as well as the spectacular nature of the recovery in certain lines.

Auto production started the year with a weekly output of 54,084 cars and was able to better this to only 62,021 units in the week of April 16, the Spring high. A steady decline followed which saw output fall as low as 33,790 in the week of August 13. In less than four months, production was boosted to 100,705 cars and trucks a day in the week of December 10, with the 1937 marks being exceeded from Nov. 12 on.

Steel production began 1938 at 25.6 per cent and hit a Spring high of 35.7 per cent in March. In the July 4 week output fell to 22.4 per cent. A rise of nearly three-fold followed to a 1938 high of 62.5 per cent of capacity in the week of November 14. The close of the year saw a normal leveling off.

Railroad freight car loadings hit their low for the year at 511,930 cars in the week of February 26, testifying to the near standstill in industry. A lower figure of 501,012 cars was set in the week of March 27, but this was a holiday. The Summer and Fall gain sent loadings to a 1938 high of 726,612 cars in the week of October 15, with the 1937 figures being exceeded in the week of November 19.

WINTER

J. W. NEYMAN, Ph.D.

Winter, astronomically, is that season of the year which begins with the shortest day, December 21, and ends with the vernal equinox, March 21. In ordinary speech, winter comprises the three coldest months, December, January and February in the United States. In the Southern Hemisphere, the winter months are June, July and August. In the Tropical zone, the rainy season corresponds to our winter. The sun recedes from the Equator and reaches its farthest point on the Vernal Equinox March 21, and on the Autumnal Equinox September 22. The sun is farthest away from us on the Autumnal Equinox. During the next six weeks its average distance from us will be exactly as it has been the last six weeks, therefore, if the angle of the sun alone determines the climate here in Pennsylvania, winter would begin about November 9 and continue until February 9. The summer heat hangs on after the solar winter and the cold clings on after the solar spring quarter has actually begun and because of this lag in the dissipation and renewal of the sun's heat December, January and February is the cold season, and we call it winter.

All this variation of the seasons which makes one month cold and another hot is caused by the position of the earth's axis in position of the plane of the orbit. The imaginary axis upon which the earth spins is not perpendicular to this plane. In fact, it is 23 degrees and 27 minutes away from a perpendicular position. If such were not the case and the axis were at all times at right angle to the sun with neither pole inclined toward or away from it, there would be no winter, no spring, no summer and no autumn. The days and nights would be equal in length at all times the year around. Twice during the year a similar condition is created, once in March and again in September when the earth gets in the same position that the poles are equidistant from the sun. These periods are called equinoxes and on two occasions the days and the nights are of equal length. But when the earth moves on its orbit, and the axis pointing always in the same direction loses its right angular position to the sun, bringing cold weather to one zone and warm weather to another.

There is no place where it is always winter. Alaska has its glorious weeks of summer. If there were no winter there could be no spring. The first season, or winter, has 90 days (91 in leap years), and the second, or spring, has 91, while the third and fourth, summer and autumn, have 92 days each. No winter in the United States is ever similar in character all over the country. It often happens that an abnormally cold winter in the east will be decidedly mild in the west, or visa versa. There is scarcely, if ever, two winters the same. In 1912 Lake Superior froze over from shore to shore for the first time on record, and moose crossed from Canada to the United States on ice. In the second week of February, 1899, Mobile, Ala., recorded a temperature of one degree below zero. In 1717 in Boston and in the New England States, a great snow from five to six feet fell from February 19 to 24. In many parts of our country there have been seen in February some bursting buds on the trees. There are many records of freak winter weather. There are many signs that people claim foretell the weather of the coming winter. But all these are as uncertain as if the groundhog sees his shadow on February 2, there will be six weeks more winter.

Winter, though dreaded by many, has many things to commend it. The freezing of the ground is beneficial to it. Snows of winter not only furnish moisture to the ground but also furnish protection to many plants. The severe, cold weather kills many noxious insects. Trees and perennial plants rest during the winter to start with new vigor when the warm days of spring come.

The long winter nights give time for study and pleasure. To the nature lover winter has many pleasures. How delightful a walk in the fields and woods on a winter day! The leafless trees afford a splendid opportunity to find many birds' nests that could not be seen because of the abundant summer foliage. What a great variety of material and workmanship these nests display. How interesting to study the tracks and haunts of animals! Trees stripped of their foliage present many objects of interest and study.

Brighter Days Seen In 1939 For Steel Industry

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Encouraged by the most pronounced fourth quarter upswing in business since post-war days, the nation's steel industry heads into 1939 with brighter days ahead and prospects for a continued rise in consumer demand.

Walter S. Towser of the American Iron and Steel Institute, said today: "Towers, executive secretary of the institute, reviewed the activities of the industry during 1938—a dismal year that saw production fall 40 per cent below the 1937 mark and almost to the mid-depression level of 1934—and calmly predicted things were looking up."

"The steel industry enters 1939 with better prospects than those of a year ago, despite the continued influences of some retarding factors, among which lack of railroad buying, little activity among the utilities and foreign uncertainties are prominent," Towers declared after summing up the high and low points of the year.

Sharpsville Man Is Hurt In Crash

Suffers Fractured Skull In Collision On Wilmington Road
Early Sunday

Mark Supplee, aged 27, East Main street, Sharpsville, Pa., is in the Jameson Memorial hospital suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull and lacerations, received when his car was involved in a collision with a machine driven by James E. Taylor of 210 Nemo street, at 1:15 a. m. Sunday.

According to the report made at the hospital, Supplee had skidded off the highway on the left side of the road, about 200 feet north of Castle View cemetery; Taylor's car, coming towards New Castle, struck the machine which was on Taylor's side of the road.

It was stated at the hospital this morning that Supplee's condition was serious but that hope is entertained for his recovery.

Loses Arm In Mouth Of Lion

(International News Service)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 27.—Just to prove that he was not afraid of lions, Sylvester Kirby, 35-year-old amusement pier "Spicer" stuck his fist in a lion's mouth.

Today he was in a Santa Monica hospital, minus his right arm. Kirby was talking with other carnival employees about lion taming, and to prove his point he approached the cage of a three-year-old lion and thrust his hands through the bars and into its mouth.

The lion's jaw clamped down, mangle Kirby's arm so badly it was necessary to amputate it.

Janitor Cuts Off His Hand

(International News Service)
ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 27.—Henry Donnell, 32, was recovering today from the amputation of his right hand which he performed himself with a pocket knife last night.

A school janitor, he was filling the automatic stocker when the mechanism became clogged. His hand was caught when he tried to dislodge the coal and he became fearful his entire arm would be mangled.

He slashed the hand off at the wrist and applied a wire tourniquet to the arm. He telephoned the hospital for aid and was still conscious when the ambulance arrived.

Use Patrol When Truck Is Lacking

City police department patrol was pressed into service as a "van" yesterday for a good act. It appears that a woman on the North Hill was in need of an invalid chair. One was located in the Seventh Ward. However, no truck could be secured to transport it so the police were called and as usual were glad to transport the chair in the police patrol.

The dictators are smart. There's no sense in a blow if blowing will serve as well.

Christmas Gifts Mailed In 1937 Just Delivered

(International News Service)
DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 27.—Postal investigators today figured if Santa was getting a bit absent minded in his old age after discovering his lapse of memory with the parents of John Rohrer.

John mailed a package of presents to his family across town just before Christmas in 1937 and wondered why they never thanked him. This year he brought his gifts in person.

Shortly after he arrived a breathless messenger appeared with the bundle he had mailed the year before.

It was explained that the package had probably been stored away by mistake in one of the extra bags that are used only during the holiday rush.

Cut In Accident On Butler Road

State motor police reported an accident between automobiles Christmas night, driven by Frank Shaffer, 91 Center avenue, Butler, and John J. Lewis, 627 Market street, Youngstown. The cars collided on the Butler road near Weigeltown. Lewis sustained lacerations of his head.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!
Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable quinalin, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

Copyright, 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

PROSPECTIVE MOTHERS SHOULD HAVE CONFIDENCE IN DOCTORS OF THEIR CHOICE

When I advised the parents of an unborn child to go to a doctor for prenatal advice and guidance, perhaps I should have been a little more specific. And so I add: "Be sure to pick a good doctor."

"This is a very important point because if you haven't implicit faith and trust in the physician, you won't do as he tells you and, therefore, you won't reap the benefits you should from his advice."

If you are a stranger in a place and require a doctor to give prenatal care to yourself and your child, it shouldn't be difficult to find such a man. The local medical association will be glad to give you a list of its members and their qualifications. Better still, neighbors will know the various medical men, and they can tell you who would be suited for your needs.

If you can, pick a doctor who has a reputation in connection with this specialty, and don't pick one who has too much work to do. If he is too busy, he may not be able to devote the time to you that he should.

Confidence between the mother and the doctor who has her in his care is of utmost importance. Many times you will find neighbors who, with the best intentions in the world, will try to have you go to their doctor by casting suspicion on yours. Once your confidence in your physician is gone, more than half the value of his advice is gone, too.

No prospective mother reading this column can say, "It all sounds nice, but I can't afford to go to a doctor for prenatal advice."

All any woman who is without money has to do is go to a clinic at any good hospital. Here she will get the very best advice available. She will be treated with as much kindness and consideration and given the same advice as though she had come to that hospital in a chauffeur-driven limousine.

To these same women, I also say that when your time has come, when the baby is about to be born, go back to that hospital with all the confidence in the world, for hospitals give the poor the same treatment they do the rich. Many a prominent obstetrician who attends the wife of a millionaire in a private room will have many patients in the public maternity wards, and give them the same skillful attention.

I am forever being asked by women who are pregnant if it is all right for them to go driving in motor cars. Yes, I think it is. Modern cars are so efficient; so much has been done to make them smooth-riding. Roads, too, are usually good nowadays, so I think a moderate amount of driving is permissible. However, I would advise that no speeding be done, and that the driver pick out a comparatively smooth road.

When the woman does go out into public during pregnancy, she should take care to avoid people who have colds or sore throats, for she is very liable to catch cold during this trying time.

"Tobacco Road" Here January 13

Return Engagement At Cathedral Theatre By Company Announced

"Tobacco Road", Jack Kirkland's famous stage success of the Georgia share-croppers, will play a return engagement in New Castle at the Cathedral theatre on Friday evening, Jan. 13, according to an announcement today by the theatre management. The company to be seen here is the only one on tour and is headed by the noted dramatic star, John Barton.

No other stage play of the last 20 years has touched the popularity of "Tobacco Road", which was written by Jack Kirkland and is based on the novel of the same name by Erskine Caldwell. The play is now in its sixth year in New York, a record equalled by only one other stage play in the 204 years of the American theatre. New Castle will be the 201st city in 38 states in which it has been presented and also the 63rd city in which it has played a return engagement. The company comes here from return visits to Cincinnati and Indianapolis and goes from here to Buffalo.

The cast, assisted by John Barton, who has the central role of Jester Lester, will include such well known players as Sam Perry, who is Ada, the wife; Patricia Quinn of the original New York production as Sister Bessie, the evangelist; and Norman Budd, William Dorne, Sheila Brent, Eugenia Wilson, Dick Lee, Lillian Ardell, Alan Jason and Walter Ayers.

Reflections

By J. K.

Painstaking accuracy which the business man takes in writing his advertising matter today has made his advertisements read by the great majority of all people. Today there is no question in the mind of the readers as to the truth and authenticity of these statements.

Now that the advantages of honest statement in advertising are accepted everywhere, it seems strange that anything else should have prevailed, but the contrast between the careful preparation of advertisements today and 40 years ago is amazing.

No one contends that people were then less honorable. The methods of merchant and customer were different. The public did not expect exact truth of the advertisements. A measure of poetic license was granted in this regard. In fact, the ads were swathed with quite a large grain of salt. Billboard notices were so fantastic in their statements that "to lie like a billboard" was a common expression. The circus poster was the last struggle to reluctantly join the movement of reasonable statement of fact. It was a bit slow to discontinue its system of exaggeration whereby one lone elephant had to be transformed into a herd of pachyderms. The side show was a still greater laggard, and the fat lady was never quite as stout as pictured.

Marketing in the early nineties was largely a matter of baffle. Seldom was the first price final. There was no secret about this. The price asked was usually high enough to allow a compromise after the customer made his final offer. There were no laws which prevented the placing of "all wool" signs on cotton material, and everyone had to be his own judge regarding this. The rule of the nineties was "the buyer beware." A transaction like buying a suit of clothes would seem like a comic opera sketch today.

There were rules of procedure as follows. The purchaser always assumed an air of indifference, but if the price, quality, fit and style were right, he might be interested. On the other hand, the merchant had a certain formula. He would assure his customer that the proposition he was making would not be made to anyone else. It was made solely because he was an old customer and a friend of his father's, etc. If it were a suit of clothes under consideration, part of the merchant's business was to hold the collar from wrinkling while the customer viewed himself in the glass. The customer's methods were no more altruistic than those of the merchant.

Reformation of both became imperative. The sale of articles became so time-consuming that it devolved upon the merchant to take the initiative and make a change of policy. The time question affecting him most, as the customer could select a time for his lengthy shopping transaction which did not interfere with his other work.

Neither merchant nor buyer had time any longer to do business without a basic agreement as to price and quality. There were still other factors which contributed to the change and now it is recognized that honesty is not only the best policy but it is also a great expedient in trade. Consequently the advertisements of today are written not only in an interesting, but in a truthful manner.

WOOLCRAFT

There was no doubt about it—the theatrical magnate was angry. "Don't ever mention the name of that double-crossing leading lady!" he said.

"I had no idea she was that sort," replied his friend.

"Why, that girl's so mean, she not only pulls the wool over your eyes, but it's 90 per cent cotton."

Holiday Business Loss Caused By Necessity For New Auto Licenses

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Pennsylvania merchants and business in general have suffered an avoidable loss of holiday business that is estimated to be close to $30,000,000, W. Purves Taylor, Secretary of Associated Petroleum Industries of Pennsylvania, declared today.

"Fully 1,600,000 of the 2,000,000 motor vehicle owners of the state are required by law to purchase their license plates for 1939 on January 1," Mr. Taylor stated. "This means an outlay of approximately $30,000,000, most of which would otherwise be spent in holiday purchases if the demand of the state was less urgent. A very large percentage of this sum represents a distinct sacrifice on the part of motor vehicle owners because the necessity for new license plates comes at a time when there are many demands on the family budget. So cramped are family finances at this time of the year that fully 400,000 motor vehicle owners are unable to afford to secure their license plates and must postpone the matter to a later date."

"Pennsylvania merchants and motor owners suffer acutely by reason of the present January 1st date for securing license plates. Five of the six surrounding states now have deferred registration, in many instances postponing the date until April 1st. Merchants and motorists in those states are enthusiastic about the revised registration dates and the plan has been approved by state and highway departments because it has substantially increased state gasoline tax income in what would otherwise be a period of restricted revenue.

"Deferred registration for Pennsylvania has been endorsed by merchants, business men, civic clubs, organized motorists and many legislators. The manifest benefits which would be shared by motorists, business and the Commonwealth combine to represent a demand for legislation that cannot be overlooked by the next regular session of the Legislature, who will have it in their power to grant a $30,000,000 Christmas present to 2,000,000 citizens of this state."

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The rise of dictatorships has complicated the affairs of European pretenders to kingship considerably, but it hasn't by any means put them out of business. Various royal discards who have clung to a faded scrap of ermine down through the centuries stir ghostly echoes of the clash of kingly arms, and day-dreams of knightly allegiance and deeds of high compromise.

Democracy has found no substitute for the symbolic and the romantic, as human incentives, to loyalty. Even in its pale afterglow the light that beats around a throne never wholly fades. Dictators, who know well the human side of the news, are quite apt to be in the market for a used king or a challenger, provided they continue to own and operate the country. But there are no more Graustarks. In all probability kings will continue to carry only property swords.

The latest who would risk the headache that goes with a crown is young Grand Duke Vladimir Cyrillovich, who leaves school at Oxford to take up his late father's job of pretender to the throne of Russia. He first would be king of the 50,000,000 Ukrainians, carving out for them a separate state which would include parts of Russia, Poland, Carpathia, Bessarabia and Lithuania. Then he would overwhelm Soviet Russia and restore the thrones, powers and dominion of the czars.

Vladimir and who else? Adolf Hitler, to be explicit. European correspondents have slated all this quite definitely, in spite of the insistence of White Russians and Ukrainians around the world that Vladimir is a self-starter and can take and hold Russia with his own patriots and no outside assistance. However it has been definitely reported that the young grand duke has been in a pow-wow with the Nazi chiefs and they have arranged that after he slices off the Ukraine there shall be a benevolent German "Reichman," who will coach him until he breaks in his new crown and sceptre.

If one should be so unkind as to ascribe any selfish motives to Herr Hitler, it will be recalled that Der Fuehrer had put in a prior claim to the Ukraine, in his book, "Mein Kampf," and that many times since he has made it clear that it is the apple of his eye. Furthermore, it is to be noted that he is now busy clearing a path to that fat grainery through Memel and other approaches.

The 21-year-old Vladimir, a personable youth, is the son of Grand Duke Cyril, cousin of Czar Nicholas II, who died in Paris early last October. The young man went to Paris, and in an eloquent and impassioned proclamation dedicated himself to the task of freeing his native land from the "infamous Soviet tyranny." He is a rallying point for White Russians all over the world, said to enjoy a much stronger following than his late father and his ascendancy, even as a pretender has inspired czarist emigres everywhere. Some of them welcome the co-optation of Nazi Germany and hail Adolf Hitler as their deliverer. They are sure that he is entirely disinterested in restoring Russia to its rightful rulers.

Young Prince Otto of Austria, nurtured and educated as a king by the Queen Mother Zita, had the same idea. But his dream palace was blown away like tinseltown in a sale as Hitler's tanks and his legions swept down on his make-believe kingdom. He jumped to Belgium, to catch up with his pretending, rudely interrupted when he had thought all was well. It was only two years ago that European reports were that Hitler was planning to hand Otto a papier mache crown to make him a come-on for a populace with a Hapsburg hangover. But apparently the base-born Fuehrer had other plans. The boy didn't get the job.

No more will the young Count of Paris, son of the late Duc de Guise; or Duke Ernst Augustus of Brunswick, of Germany, who is still allowed to do a little ground-and-lofty pretending; or Prince Xavier of Bourbon-Parma in Spain or the outgoing King Anthony I of England, once a policeman, basing his claim on Tudor descent; or the elegant young Don Duarte, Duke of Braganza, of Portugal.

They never come back. That seems to be even more true of kings than prizefighters. George II of Greece, regaining his throne after thirteen years, is the only exception in modern times. But he is only window-dressing, and the hard-billed, hold-nail Melaxas is the real boss of the country. But how they do hang on! And some of them might get another run at that. The world is hitting the old back trail pretty hard these days.

National Head Of Girl Scouts Sends New Year's Message

Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke of Washington, D. C., Girl Scout national president, has sent the following New Year's message to Girl Scouts in the United States:

"The doors of 1938 are closing and the portals of 1939 stand alluringly wide. Let us enter courageously and with high hope so that our more than half a million members may reach far distant goals.

"The road again leads to new opportunity for service and because during the 12 months past our organization has emphasized good citizenship, communities all over the country stand ready to help our more than half a million members achieve their aims.

"The Girl Scouts are taking an ever more important part in our national life and we must now highly resolve that this next year will be one of great accomplishment.

"The national organization greets you and sends you all good wishes. May such success and happiness be yours in 1939, is my New Year wish to the Girl Scouts in America."

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Life is full of pitfalls and dangers. We must ever be alert to escape injury or death.

How about little children, unfamiliar with life's problems? Every year 7,000 children under five are fatally injured.

Burns and scalds comprise 26 per cent of these deaths.

Children are curious and venture some, they wander about.

They may fall into a pall of scalding water.

Upset a pot or pan of boiling liquid from the stove or table.

Pull the tablecloth and spill soup or tea on themselves.

Babies have been fatally scalded in the bathtub.

Hot fluids are necessary in the home.

Mothers should watch infants playing about kitchen or laundry.

Claim Spanish Government Forces Suffer Heavy Losses

Heavy Fighting In Spanish War

Widespread Gains For Insurgents Are Claimed In Southern Catalonia

GOVERNMENT DENIES INSURGENT CLAIMS

(International News Service) HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 27.—Heavy fighting on the southern Catalan front in which Spanish government forces lost "thousands" of men in dead and wounded, resulted in widespread gains for insurgent Generalissimo Francisco's legions, an insurgent communiqué issued at Salamanca claimed today.

Still other thousands of government soldiers and officers were taken prisoner, the announcement said, and large stocks of war materials were captured.

A Spanish (government) press agency dispatch denied insurgent claims, stating Franco's offensive had "exhausted itself" in four days of attacks that brought thousands of casualties to the insurgents.

According to the Salamanca communiqué, the insurgents occupied Fallat Height and the villages of Cogull, Vilanova De Mella, Pinjat, Castellar, Carbonera, Masos and Forcos.

At the same time the Spanish press service (insurgent) circulated a dispatch claiming that Franco's troops also occupied the important village of Borjas Blancas, 16 miles east of Lerida, and penetrated Tarazona province.

Claim 30,000 May Be Trapped

Insurgent advisers claimed further that about 30,000 government troops at the center of the Catalan front were in danger of being trapped and separated from their bases by insurgent flanking maneuvers.

At Burgos, the insurgent capital, an announcement said Franco's troops registered a net gain of 12 miles to the east on the Sortramp sector, taking 1,000 prisoners.

With the capture of Cogull, it was claimed, the insurgents won position commanding the Segre river on the southern battlefield, and invested Poble De La Granadella, which Burgos authorities expected to capitulate shortly.

In a series of aerial encounters over Mayala, the communiqué added, eight government planes were destroyed.

But government authorities at Barcelona insisted the insurgent onslaught east of Lerida had achieved only small gains which were not commensurate with the heavy casualties inflicted upon the attackers.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Although the Republicans will now be able to organize the Pennsylvania senate when the legislature convenes January 3, they will still need the support of at least one Democrat to insure the passage of Republican legislation.

For with the resignation of Sen. P. J. Henney of Allegheny county, neither side has a constitutional majority of 26 in the upper chamber.

The Republicans, however, will probably have several Democrats if past experience is any precedent—willing to kick off the traces and support Republican measures if they feel so inclined.

Among them are Anthony J. Cavalcante of Fayette county, John J. Haluska of Cambria county, and J. Albert Reed of Washington county.

The political overturn in the Pennsylvania senate provided a curious turn of events.

When the ballots were counted in the November election it appeared that the Democrats held a slim but safe 26-24 majority.

But when the legislature convened January 3 there will be a 25-24 Republican majority in the senate.

Control of the senate as well as the house came to the Republicans after persistent endeavor on their part.

The first attempt to wipe out the slim Democratic lead was through an election recount brought against Sen. Samuel A. Weiss, Allegheny county Democrat, but Weiss emerged the winner.

At present there is no indication that the revenue department has any intention of giving an extension of time for using 1938 license plates.

The department has issued close to 1,000,000 licenses already and a special force of 500 employees is being kept on duty during the holiday recess at the capitol to handle the expected onrush of applications.

A survey by Secretary of Internal Affairs Thomas A. Logue shows that in 1937 Pennsylvania factories produced more than 4,300,000,000 valued at $18,000,000.

Former Senator William S. Rial of Westmoreland county, is now being talked of as a possibility for the attorney generalship in the James cabinet.

EARLE FLIES AFTER CRASH

Christmas Crackup Fails To Ground Governor Of Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—Undaunted by his close encounter with death or serious injury on Christmas Day, Governor Earle flew here from Philadelphia on Monday, narrowly missing a raging blizzard.

The weather was perfectly all right when we left Philadelphia, the governor explained upon his arrival, "but the ceiling altitude dropped from 5,000 to 1,000 feet."

The governor and his wife flew in separate planes.

"We can't let a little thing like a mishap stop us," he said.

The governor said he felt no ill effects, when the plane in which he was flying his wife and two friends to Philadelphia turned over in landing near Conshohocken.

Bandits Fail In Holdup Attempt

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 27.—Two youthful bandits who attempted to hold up H. A. Gibson, Shadyside pharmacist, in his store last night were sought by police today.

Robbed four times previously during the past four years, Gibson lost no time last night when the young thugs appeared, grabbing a revolver and firing away at them.

Both fled but it was believed the one youth had been wounded by one of the bullets.

The store was robbed seven times during the seven years preceding Gibson's ownership.

In the automobile damage case of Walter Stallina, minor, by his parents, Andrew and Josephine Stallina, against Anthony Fornataro, Judge Thomas W. Walter was injured when struck by a car driven by defendant on Cascade street.

John Gurgasz has filed a summons in trespass at the prothonotary's office against the Pennsylvania Power Company. No statement of claim as to the reasons for the suit has yet been filed.

The Lawrence Savings and Trust Company, trustee for H. W. Adams under the will of W. H. Alken, now for use of Elizabeth Isaac, has filed a precept for a scire facias against Blanche Black Kelso and others. The amount of the claim is $2,126.30.

Harris Critchlow, use of the C. I. T. corporation has filed a writ of replevin at the prothonotary's office against David Brown, to secure possession of an automobile.

The Hickok Electrical Instrument Company has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against G. W. Rapson and R. B. Peterson, trading as Rapson and Peterson, to collect a balance on a bill of $195.57, over which there is some dispute.

Judge Thomas W. Dickey has handed down an opinion in the case of Florence G. Barris and Gertrude Lutes, assignees, against David E. Campbell in which a rule granted is made absolute and the defendant is let in to a defense. E. and Pearl E. Campbell live in North Beaver township. Mrs. Campbell was ill, and Florence E. Barris, a niece, came to the Campbell home and offered to wait on Mrs. Campbell. The offer was accepted. Pearl E. Campbell died May 28th, 1938.

In the meantime it is alleged that Audley Barris, husband of Florence G. Barris, the niece, and one Richard R. Lewis, secured a judgment note for $2,000 from David E. Campbell, allegedly for services performed by Mrs. Barris. The note was made payable on demand to Florence E. Barris. It was filed on May 31, 1938, and on Aug. 2, 1938 was assigned to Mrs. Gertrude Lutes, a daughter of Mrs. Barris. A few days later a writ of fieri facias was issued to collect the notes.

Campbell who is 73 years old, asked the court to have the judgment opened alleging that he is unlettered and did not understand that he was signing a note before Notary Lewis. He claimed that he was tricked into it. Judge Dickey granted a rule on the plaintiff to show cause why the motion should not be granted. It was upon this motion that the court has just handed down an opinion. It means that Campbell will have an opportunity in court to show whether or not he was tricked into signing the note.

Inspector Finds Young Girl Held By White Slavers

Chinese Take Young Girl To Apartment And Force
Her Into Life Of Sin

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—Told by a 15-year-old Minneapolis girl that she had been trapped by a Chinese vice ring, police today hunted for the child's girl companion, also 15, fearing she may have met a similar fate.

Found in an alleged Chinatown vice ring by the most chance, Esther Ross, pretty grammar school girl, said she had been held prisoner three weeks as a white slave for an exclusively Chinese clientele.

As a result of her story, two Chinese, Lung Quong, 22, and Tom Chan, 21, were arrested on statutory charges. Chan also was ordered held for immigration authorities, as he is a native of China.

Found By Inspector
An inspector from the missing persons bureau, making routine inquiries on another case, knocked on an apartment door to ask for directions.

"Nobody home, nobody home, said a Chinese voice from within. But the inspector also heard the plaintive voice of a girl and, becoming curious, pushed the door open. Inside he found the girl.

The child said she was the daughter of Frank Ross, of Minneapolis. Two months ago, she said, she and Gladys Graves ran away from home and hitch-hiked to Esther's grandmother's ranch near San Luis Obispo.

A month ago they hitch-hiked to San Francisco but became separated soon afterwards. As she was sitting in a Chinatown restaurant, two Chinese approached her and offered to help her, she said. Instead they took her to the apartment and forced her into a sordid life, she charged.

New Castle Hospital Observes Christmas

Variety Of Programs Presented At Institution During Yuletide Period

Christmas was fittingly observed in the New Castle hospital.

The yuletide festivities started Thursday evening when the Girl Scouts of St. Mary's church brought "Santa Claus" favors and sang a number of Christmas selections. Later the chorists from senior high entertained the patients with Christmas carols.

Friday evening preliminary students of the New Castle hospital school of nursing presented an appropriate program. Those taking part: Misses McPeak, McConny, Pozzuto, Houk, Campbell, Grable, Clark, Cosgrove, Kromyak, Yanus, Noga, Zimmerman. Selections were also given by student groups. The presentation was given to an audience which filled the roof garden of the hospital.

Saturday evening another group from the Methodist church entertained with Christmas carol singing. Christmas morning at six o'clock high mass was sung by Rev. Fr. Vincent O'Donnell, chaplain, followed by benediction of the most blessed sacrament. Mrs. Frances Colco was at the organ. Second mass was celebrated at seven o'clock, followed by a third mass at eight o'clock. The chapel had been attractively arranged for the yuletide season. An unusually beautiful crib, surrounded by Christmas trees which were electrically lighted, adorned the chapel.

The following organizations and schools remembered the patients during Christmas: Catholic Daughters of America, Rotary Club, Lincoln-Garfield school, Mahoning Girl Reserves, seventh graders of First M. E. church, junior members of Catholic Daughters of America.

The patients, about 60 in number, enjoyed a perfect Christmas dinner. The entire hospital building had been arranged most attractively. Christmas trees, all cleverly decorated, adorned each floor. The village scene, beneath the large tree in the lobby, has created much attention.

French Socialists Would Seek To Have U. S. Join In Move To Defend Democracy

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Dec. 27.—A resolution calling upon the United States to join France, Great Britain and the Soviet Union to defend democracy against the "menace" of Germany, Italy and Japan was adopted today by the special congress of the French Socialist party.

The resolution, proposed by former Premier Leon Blum, Socialist party leader, advocated the strongest measures against Nazis and Fascists. It condemned the Munich pact and the role in it played by Premier Daladier.

Adopted by a vote of 4,322 to 2,337, the resolution stated:

"Active sympathy, such as that of America, is precious and necessary but is not sufficient. France's security necessarily implies the existence of a mutual defense accord to be concluded with the Pacific states."

Follows Heated Debate

The vote followed a heated debate through the night between the militant faction led by Blum and a conservative group led by Paul Faure, secretary general of the Socialist party. There were 1,014 abstentions from the vote while a program for "peace at any price" won 60 votes. The 2,337 votes favored the Munich peace accord.

The abstentions and divided vote indicated what may prove a serious split in the Socialist party, which holds 149 seats in the chamber of deputies as against the 113 held by Daladier's radical Socialist (moderate liberal) group.

Adoption of the resolution placed the Socialist party officially on record as opposing Daladier's foreign policies and the Munich accord. There were rumors that Faure and his followers might bolt, forming a new political group of their own.

Daladier To Make Trip
Meanwhile, ignoring Italian charges that he intended a "warlike demonstration," Daladier prepared for his trip next week to Corsica, and Tunisia, where he will review military parades designed to warn Italy against any annexationist moves.

In addition, Daladier revealed that his plans also call for an inspection of the Algerian defenses in North Africa.

In urging the coalition among the United States, Britain, France and Soviet Russia, Blum denied that it would mean an "ideological war," as he declared:

"The feeling of a common danger will doubtless bring together all the nations menaced by the totalitarian states."

life in America in chapel assemblies within the near future. If plans of the S. A. R. are carried out, the New Castle chapter of the patriotic organization, at its annual dinner meeting in the Elks club over the week end, gave its approval to such a program. The plan is to contrast American life with life in dictator lands.

Suggestions to send out speakers followed a brilliant address given by Rev. Philip C. Pearson, rector of Trinity Episcopal church.

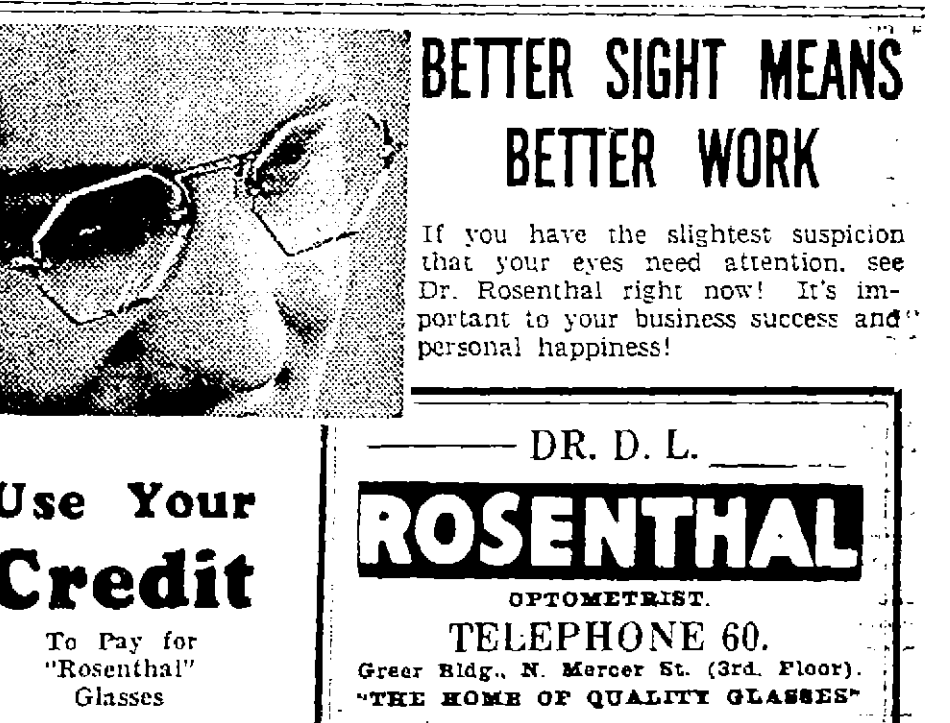

Elected as the new chapter president for 1939 was Harold D. Harlan of this city. Chosen to office with him were David A. Evans, Ellwood City; vice-president; William R. McCombs, secretary-treasurer; and Homer C. Drake, registrar.

New Castle To Play Ford City Quintet Tonight

Hope To Aton For Setback Received At Ford City Earlier In Month

HIGH RESERVES TO PLAY BEN FRANKLIN

New Castle high school basketball team will play Ford City high at the Arena floor tonight in the second home game of the season. The New Castle High Reserves will play the Ben Franklin high team in the preliminary game at 7:15 o'clock.

Having suffered a 27 to 23 defeat at the hands of Ford City high on December 16, the locals hope to atone for the setback tonight. The Ford City team is practically the same that won the W. P. I. A. L. last year and also upset New Castle in the stadium.

Locals Encouraged

Encouraged by the victory over the strong Farrell high team last week, the locals will be out tonight to make it two straight wins at the Arena court. Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh has signified his intention of starting the same team that began the Parrell game.

Ford City will be hard to defeat. In Sotnyk, McIlwaine and Dounton; they have three boys who played last year on the championship team and they form the nucleus of the team this year. These three boys together made 22 of the 27 points against New Castle in the game played at Ford City.

Franklin High Seeks Revenge
The preliminary game will also be a revengeful one, the High Reserves having upset the Franklin high team at the Franklin court earlier in the month. Coach Bill Wallace says that the East Siders will be out tonight to get back at the High Reserves.

Following are the probable line-ups:
New Castle: Ford City
Clark: F. Milto
Greene: F. Dounton
Bombyk: C. McIlwaine
Adamo: G. Sotnyk
Lauro: G. Zulla

In one of the most exciting basketball contests of the season, the Pittsburgh Ormsby-Ferris quintet scored a 38-31 victory over the New Castle Boosters, Sunday, on The Arena court.

The Boosters grabbed an 11-6 margin in the opening period. The Smokey City five hit the mesh for 16 markers to wipe out the lead in the second canto. The Boosters deadlocked matters near the end of the third period only to see the visitors forge ahead in the final moments of the chapter.

Guzik led the attack for the Ormsby team, knocking off seven field goals and a pair of charity tosses. Grommes, Nocer and Carik divided scoring honors for the locals. Wednesday night, the Boosters travel to Beaver Falls to battle the crack St. Mary's team. Saturday, the locals take to the roads again for a tilt with the West Middlesex cagers. ### CIO-CUO TREATS HOST OF CHILDREN

Scored of New Castle youngsters shared Christmas gifts and carols and lively entertainment when the local Congress of Industrial Organization units and the Committee of Unemployed Organizations jointly staged a holiday party in the third-floor meeting hall in the Clendenin building.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath was on hand to lend his help and to speak to the children, direct beneficiaries of the Union township toy shop which the CIO-CUO operated before Christmas and which turned out toys galore for the needy. Santa Claus also was there.

The party's chairman was Arthur Johnston. Other speakers were J. H. Grille, in whose home the toy shop was set up; Harry White, who supervised the entertainment part of the evening, and Master Tommy Barnes, who welcomed the young guests.

Participants in the entertainment and speaking program were: Leo Naderinski, Alexander Mizlak and James White, Charles Brickner and William "Sapho" Jones, Dorothy Sokovitz, Teresa Audino, Betty Kelley, Barbara and Gladys Grille, James "Dad" Heasley, Dolores Whelan, Lorna Johnston, Ruth Johnston, "Sam and Glenn" entertainment team, Anthony Walack, Bobby Barnes, Morris and Doyle Mitchell, Mary Louise Barnes, June Jones and Doyle Glossner.

Santa Claus, in the person of Carl Cialella, distributed some 200 large bags filled with pop corn, candies and fruits to the happy youngsters. L. Porco assisted Cialella.

If he can blow up a shipload of innocent strangers to get even with a tyrant, he must have deserved all the tyrant did to him.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Along the main stem I exchanged a little sport chatter with R. X. Graham, publicity director at Pitt University, who is spending the Christmas vacation here. He sang the praises of Walt Raskowski, who was shifted from a guard to a tackle berth. Graham told about the afternoon at Durham when Pitt dropped that 7-0 decision to Duke. "In the press-box, the scribes spent considerable time remarking about Raskowski's fine play. It seemed that Walt knew every Duke play and, together with Petro, made it miserable for the Blue Devils. It was too bad Raskowski suffered that toe injury. He looked like an All-American if there ever was one," Graham said.

The former Westminster publicly head honestly believes that one of the best Pitt teams in the history of the school lost to Duke. Biggie Goldberg is one of Graham's favorites. He's a personality one can't help but like. A few days ago Goldberg stepped into Graham's room, handed him a cigar, wished him in the season greeting and said he was off for the East-West game. "Drop you a card soon as I reach," Goldberg said as he dashed away. Graham, who is well versed about sports, tabbed Goldberg as the greatest blocker in football. "He'd rather block than carry the ball, that was Goldberg's reason for requesting the fullback berth," Graham continued. Despite all the mud-slinging that has been going on, meaning the trouble with the Freshmen crew, Graham still thinks Pitt is tops in football which goes double for us. "Jock" Sutherland is the berries as a coach, said our smiling friend as he continued on his way.

Louis Stein, 81, is the last surviving member of the group which formed the American Bowling Congress back in 1895. Harry Lejeune, who once tossed a baseball 426 feet 9 1/4 inches, for a world's record, is a waiter in a Grand Rapids hash house. Patty R. Badley, the miss who broke the American women's record for the 200 yard breast stroke is only 12. Col. E. F. Bradley, the big boss man, welcomes all suggestions for names for his thoroughbreds but insists that all must start with the letter "B." Bob Feller's head is the same size as it was before he entered the major leagues, so says his barber in Van Meter, Ia.

Something about the '38 baseball season—Here are a few fingers for the stove leaguers to fidget out. Al Todd, Pirate catcher, who was recently traded, led the backstoppers with 985. Twenty-two National League pitchers had perfect fielding averages but Turner, of the Bees, had the cost chances, 89. Gus Sulz, also of the Pirates, set a new mark by participating in 150 double plays. Wilbur Brubaker, a teammate, equalled the best "goal" record by chalking up four miscues in one game. For the third straight year, the Cubs led in team fielding with 978, which is a new record. And, this will hardly astound you, the Phillies committed the most errors, 201.

Odds and Ends—Joe Louis gets so many letters with only his name scribbled on the envelope, that the New York postal department uses a rubber stamp with the N. Y. Hippodrome on it. Paul Runyan, the noted golf pro, who is 30, was dishing out lessons in Hot Springs at 17. Ted Sullivan, a newspaperman year ago, is credited with inventing the word "fan," which he created from the word fanatic. Briggs, the head man of the Tigers, simply refused to watch his Detroiters played when Eldon Auker was on the mound. Didn't have confidence in the hurler who has now been traded. Coast critics have tabbed the Rose Bowl game, "the battle of lingerie." Duke has been ribbed more than any other team in many years.

California Tops Georgia Tech In Grid Game 13 To 0

BERKLEY, Cal., Dec. 27.—The final score goes down in the record books as California 13 Georgia Tech 0, but what should go down is Tech 0, but California left halfback 13, Georgia Tech 0.

For three and a half quarters the two teams battled on even terms but from then on it was all Vic. He led two late drives of 60 and 65 yards for touchdowns, scoring the first himself and sending Louis Smith across the goal line for the final tally with only half a minute of play remaining.

Botari rolled up 108 yards from scrimmage on 27 plays for an average gain of 3.5 yards per try. The bears attack failed to move against the scrappy Yellowjackets until Botari took matters into his own hands. From then on there was no stopping him.

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis who atoned for a previous defeat and knocked out Max Schmeling in the first round, is rated the No. 1 boxer of 1938 by the boxing magazine, "The Ring." The spectacular manner in which Louis retained his crown against the German was regarded as superior to Henry Armstrong's feat in winning three titles.

By losing 2-0 to Toronto, the New York Rangers muffed an opportunity to tie the Boston Bruins for leadership in the National Hockey league.

Something that has been known for some time—the fact that Jimmy Fox, Boston Red Sox first baseman, led the American league with a batting average of .340 during the 1938 season—now is official. Fox also hit 50 home runs, eight short of the number blasted by Detroit's Hank Greenberg, to contribute his share toward Boston's first position rating in the batting column. The Red Sox showed an impressive average of .290 in the plate and finished the season in second place behind the Yankees.

Smashing hopes for a rematch with War Admiral in Florida this winter, Seabiscuit will be sent back shortly to California from the C. S. Howard Training Farm at Columbia, S. ### Trojans-Duke Players Resume Training Today

Get Vacation On Christmas Day And Must Get Back In Harness Today

(International News Service)
PASADENA, Dec. 27.—Resuming practice after a Christmas Day vacation, Wallace Wade, coach of the Trojans, today decided upon their starting lineup for the Rose Bowl encounter January 2.

Wade, hardly as secretive about his lineup as his drills at Brookside Park, decided that he would send the same eleven onto the Rose Bowl turf that he did upon that snow-covered gridiron of Durham, N. C., when the Blue Devils halted Pittsburgh's "dream backfield" to the tune of 7-0.

Jones was a bit less decisive, due to the injury of Amerigo Tonelli, right guard, but today admitted that Bob Fisher, who has alternated at guard and tackle, likely will start in that position.

(International News Service)

Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis who atoned for a previous defeat and knocked out Max Schmeling in the first round, is rated the No. 1 boxer of 1938 by the boxing magazine, "The Ring." The spectacular manner in which Louis retained his crown against the German was regarded as superior to Henry Armstrong's feat in winning three titles.

By losing 2-0 to Toronto, the New York Rangers muffed an opportunity to tie the Boston Bruins for leadership in the National Hockey league.

Something that has been known for some time—the fact that Jimmy Fox, Boston Red Sox first baseman, led the American league with a batting average of .340 during the 1938 season—now is official. Fox also hit 50 home runs, eight short of the number blasted by Detroit's Hank Greenberg, to contribute his share toward Boston's first position rating in the batting column. The Red Sox showed an impressive average of .290 in the plate and finished the season in second place behind the Yankees.

Smashing hopes for a rematch with War Admiral in Florida this winter, Seabiscuit will be sent back shortly to California from the C. S. Howard Training Farm at Columbia, S. C., because of a strained ligament. Trainer Tom Smith declined on racing the 5-year-old champion in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap.

BANKERS ELECTION NEARS
Plans for the annual January dinner meeting of the Lawrence County Bankers' association, at which the 1939 officers of the organization will be elected, are "developing." President, Edgar L. Thompson reported today.

MAKING SURE
"How do you always manage to have such delicious beef?" asked Mrs. Greene, of her neighbor, Mrs. Sharpe.
"I select a good, honest butcher, and then stand by him," explained Mrs. Sharpe.
"You mean, you give him all your confidence?"
"No, I stand by him while he's cutting off the meat."

Correct this sentence: "If congress appropriates money for armament," said the earnest citizen, "no official would dare use it for anything else."
A football coach reminds us of the ruler of a democracy. He loses his reputation because some dumb guy doesn't play the game.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL.

Here it is the first working day after that good old day of Christmas . . . now we can talk things over . . . what do you say. How many neckties are you going to wear at once this year . . . what about those loud socks that Aunt Min gave you and those terrible old fashioned shirts . . . But Christmas would not be Christmas without those little incidents. We hope that all enjoyed the day and that you all have many more to enjoy.

***

The traffic lights at the foot and top of Jefferson street hill are rather un dependable . . . according to the arrangement set forth by the traffic department . . . good weather will find the lights working . . . in bad weather they are to be turned to warning . . . Sunday and Monday the hill was not in too bad a condition . . . the light was off . . . this morning when the streets were rather dangerous the light was working. So you see.

***

The spirit of Christmas is much more outstanding this year than in former years . . . at least the homes are decorated to a higher extent . . . one that really rates mention is located on Reynolds street . . . the correct address is 624. The East side we believe can really say they lead the parade this year when it comes to home decorating. So if you really want to see a sight that is worth your effort . . . take a trip up to Reynolds street and cast your lamps on this great outdoor lighting set. Made, owned and operated by J. A. Defonso.

***

If the weather stays cold this week . . . hundreds of miles will be put on our friends the ice skates . . . this is the school boy and girls heaven. No school and the weather cold enough to freeze the water. There are several ponds around where skating is safe . . . so read your local newspaper for the ideal spot.

***

It's time we say . . . so long until we can warm up a bit . . . cherrio.
